

MALONEY'S LAST AERIAL FLIGHT

Victim of Accident Celebrated for His Daring.

CONSIDERED AN EXPERT

Inventor of Machine Nearly Crazed Over Terrible Death of the Man.

SAN JOSE, Cal., July 20.—John Maloney, who met a spectacular death on the grounds of the Santa Clara College here yesterday, by falling 3,000 feet to earth from the broken Montgomery aeroplane, was celebrated for his daring ascents in experimental flights.

Prof. Montgomery, of the college faculty, who believed that he had solved the secret of aerial navigation, had two experts in his service whom he pronounced second to none in the world. One was his hot air man, who manipulated the big balloon that carried the fragile aeroplane aloft, while it was set free. The other man Maloney, who, at a height of 4,000 feet, cut his craft away from the sustaining balloon, and took his chances with his craft at this high altitude.

Prof. Montgomery, who is near crazed at the rate of his aeronaut, said that Maloney's courage and enthusiasm were boundless. He thoroughly believed in the frail machine that on yesterday plunged with him to death.

Maloney had caused the aeroplane to perform at will all sorts of evolutions, and was descending among the 2,000 spectators, when one of the wings of the machine, which was constructed on the principle of the flight of a bird, broke. The aeroplane turned over three times, Maloney making heroic efforts to control it, and it plunged straight to the earth.

A priest in the assemblage raised his hands aloft and gave the sign of absolution to the doomed man.

Maloney's skull was fractured and his entire body was crushed by the frightful impact. He died a few moments later. The aeroplane was demolished.

SWARTZELL NOT OUT OF WOODS

Fight Against Principal of Eastern to Continue.

The fight against Moshelm Swartzell is to go on. Headed by the East Washington Citizens Association, the opponents of Mr. Swartzell are quietly marshaling their forces, and there is little doubt that when they lay their case before the Board of Education that body will be forced to reopen the Swartzell case.

Heretofore, according to statements by members of the board, there have been no specific charges against Mr. Swartzell's general ability as a teacher and principal. It is promised that there will be a number of such charges. Those who make the promise say, moreover, that every charge will be substantiated by incontrovertible evidence.

More Petitions Circulating. Additional petitions are being circulated against Mr. Swartzell by patrons of Eastern and these are backed up in their efforts by many of the pupils. Two of the Eastern girls started out yesterday afternoon with these petitions. A similar petition is being circulated in favor of Mr. Swartzell. Three alumni of Eastern have this petition in charge.

In discussing the situation today a prominent business man who was actively interested in the case as long as Central High School appeared to be affected, but who has dropped out since the scene of action became once more limited to Eastern territory, expressed the opinion that Mr. Swartzell would resign if there was no fight against the action of the board in reinstating him.

No Idea of Resigning. The idea of those who held this view was that Mr. Swartzell did not wish to retire under fire.

It can be authoritatively stated, however, that Mr. Swartzell at present has no intention of resigning. George W. Swartzell, the brother of the school teacher, who has been acting in his behalf, declared emphatically this morning, in answer to a direct question, that Mr. Swartzell did not contemplate resigning.

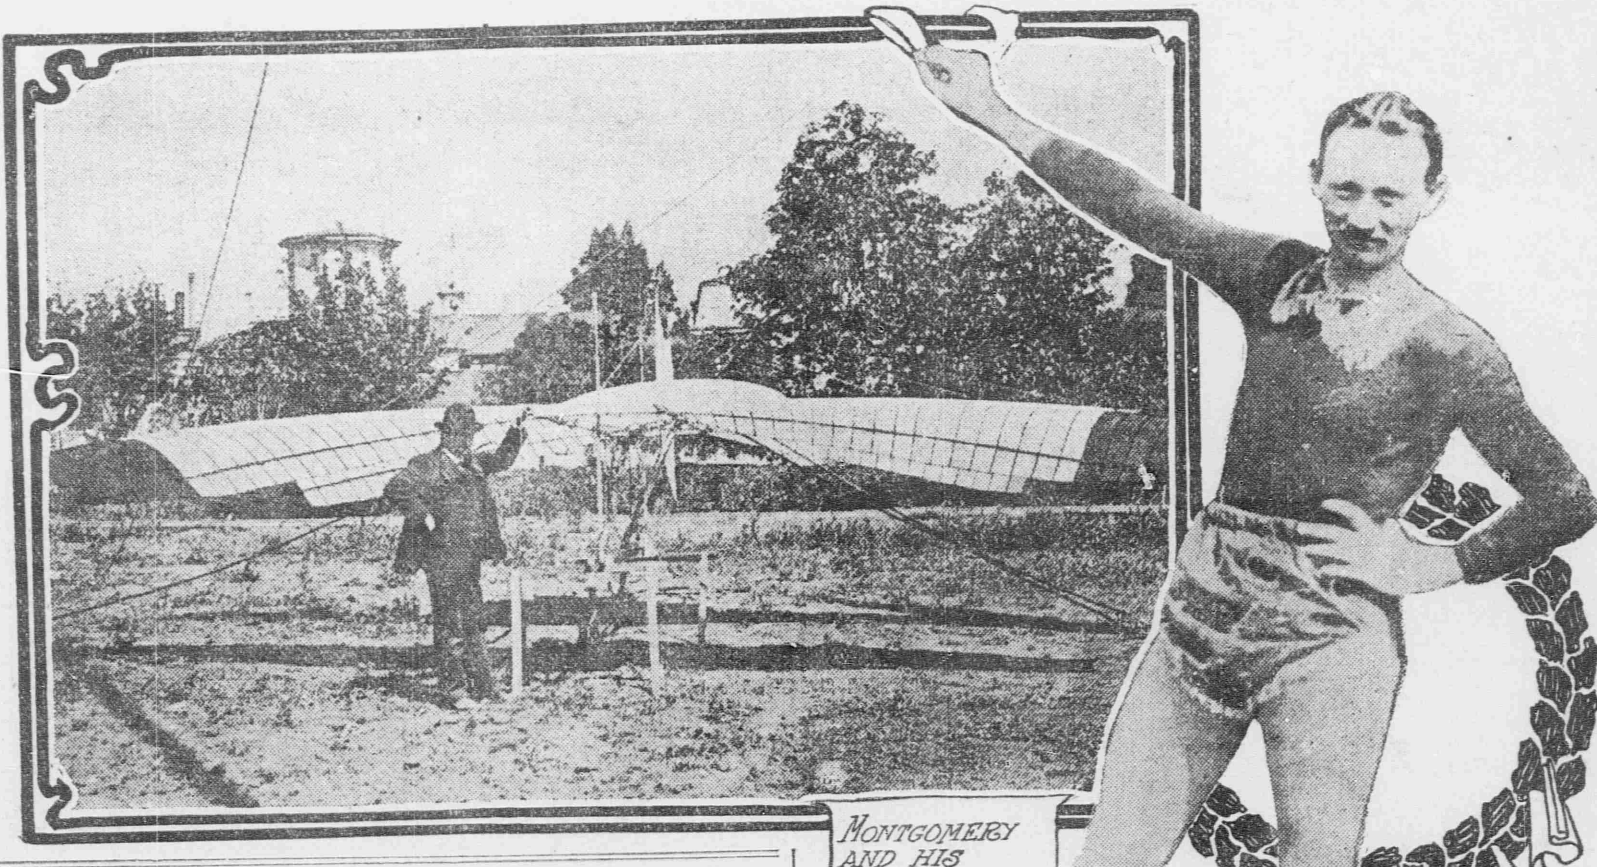

Thomas W. Smith, president of the East Washington Citizens Association, announced today that, after consultation with several prominent members of that association, he had decided not to call a meeting of the executive committee for the present.

Decisive Action Soon. "It is better, we think," said Mr. Smith, "to let the matter lie quiet for a few days. We have considered calling a mass meeting of the patrons of Eastern High School to take action on the matter, but no such meeting will be called for the present.

"We are awaiting certain developments. It is likely that within a few days we will be in a position to take decisive action in one way or another. We have not lost interest in the Swartzell matter, but we changed our position in regard to it."

China Has Put Up Bars Against Yankee Trade

Boycott on American Goods in Force at Shanghai and Canton--Imperial Interdict Ignored--Resentment at Action.

The long threatened boycott of American goods in China by Chinese merchants has gone into effect, according to advices received at the State Department.

The two ports affected are Shanghai and Canton. The Chinese guilds, by whom the boycott was ordered, are strong at those points, and there is no doubt that American manufacturers shipping to China will suffer severely.

The fact that the Chinese guilds have begun the boycott in the face of the imperial order issued exhorting them not to do so has caused surprise here.

State Department Angered.

In State Department circles there is not only a feeling of uneasiness over the developments, but a distinct sense of resentment over the fact that China has persisted in her course, despite the proclamation of President Roosevelt, in which he announced that hereafter the exclusion laws would not be harshly enforced, and that the authorities here would do everything possible to remove objectionable features.

Uneasiness Among Exporters.

The boycott has been pending for several months and the threat of it caused great uneasiness among Oriental dealers in this country, especially cotton manufacturers, who sent a petition to the President. There was always a hope that something would happen to stave it off. Efforts were made by the Administration through our diplomatic representatives in Peking to restore the cordial feeling of the Chinese toward us before the boycott went into effect.

When Minister Rockhill telegraphed recently that he had gotten the imperial government to issue an order forbidding the boycott it was thought that the danger had passed. Yesterday's developments have left little hope in this regard. Every effort will now be concentrated to have the boycott called off. It is felt that large commercial interests will suffer otherwise.

Attitude of Chinese Government.

State Department officials do not believe that the boycott will hold outside of Shanghai and Canton. The guilds are not nearly so strong at other points and it is only through these that the boycott can be effective, as all the merchants are members of these organizations and can be fined if they violate the rules.

The indications outwardly, at any rate, are that the Chinese government will try to discourage the boycott. The Empress Dowager values the friendship of the United States too highly to encourage this country absolutely, though undoubtedly a feeling of resentment has spread throughout the kingdom against American goods on account of the exclusion laws.

The date for the boycott to go into effect at other ports besides Canton and Shanghai is August 1. It is believed that diplomacy may be able to accomplish a stay of proceedings by that time.
